

Socratic Questioning: Student Self-Reflection for Evaluation

Instructions for Teachers:

Below is a short feedback form for students to complete independently, with the goal of helping students to reflect on the process they experienced through the class discussion.

It is helpful to share the questions in advance with students before they participate in this learning method, and to inform them in advance if you intend to collect the information they will be writing as a means of evaluation.

For teachers, the feedback can be used as a way to evaluate the student's involvement in the discussion and his/her ability to express him/herself and acquire new knowledge.

Self-Reflection on Discussion Involvement

Name: Discussion Topic:

How many times did I actively participate throughout the lesson?

1-2

3-5

More than 5

An opinion that I heard during the discussion that I agree with:

An opinion that I heard during the discussion that I do not agree with.
Explain why:

A new insight I have about the discussion topic: